

Transforming Lives, Promoting Accountability, Strengthening Community Safety

The Restorative Justice Mediation Program (RJMP) offers crime victims and juvenile offenders an effective alternative to the traditional criminal justice system. RJMP receives referrals from probation, the public defender’s office, and other service agencies. We provide offenders a chance to take responsibility and make amends as well as give the victim a voice and an opportunity to ask questions and to describe the impact of the offense. The process begins the healing for the victim, the offender, and the community.

Victim-Offender dialogue differs from traditional mediation. It requires offenders to take responsibility for the harm they have done victims. It helps to provide equitable restitution to the victim, and is proven to reduce the probability that an offender will re-offend.

This training is intended for all persons interested in becoming RJMP facilitators but will benefit school teachers, defense attorneys, and everyone in between--and especially those involved with teenagers and young adults. Trainees who agree to facilitate cases with RJMP will receive valuable experience in conflict resolution and transferrable skills to all walks of life.
